"Women have the strength of mind and the courage to fight for the country and bring about harmony and peace. So Valmiki, who described women in many ways, said that women are the very embodiment of sweetness. What is the main reason for this sweetness? It is the quality of sacrifice in her that makes it sweet. The mother is prepared to go to any length and sacrifice for the sake of the children. She will sacrifice even her life to protect her children. This sense of sacrifice is there only in the women. We say that this world is full of discord. From where has this discord come? It has come from within. So every time we celebrate Ladies Day (stree dina) on November 19, we should propagate this type of thought. Not only should good thoughts be propagated, but they should start right at the home. This is an auspicious day, dedicated for women. There is no quality greater than sacrifice."
